DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, claims 2, 16, 17, and 21-27, in Paper No. 7 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the field of search for both inventions is the same and that the process necessarily makes the product. This is not found persuasive because a search of the method is not required for the product claims and, as noted in the restriction requirement, the product can be made by another method.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 3 and 28-34 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected method.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DD 208 740 issued to Gaertner et al., in view of US 4,272,419 issued to Force.

Applicant claims a carpet having pile bonded to a backing with a composition comprising carboxylated styrene-butadiene rubber (SBR), a rosin acid soap (RAS), and a filler.

Gaertner discloses a SBR latex composition having a styrene content of 30-70 pbw and a butadiene content of 70-30 pbw (abstract). The latex may include alkali RAS as an emulsifier. The latex is suitable for bonding carpet materials.

Gaertner fails to teach the use of a filler. However, fillers are well-known in the art of carpet backcoats. For example, Force teaches the use of 400 parts calcium carbonate filler per 100 parts carboxylated SBR latex, as an adhesive backcoat for tufted carpets (Example 1, col. 4, line 41-col. 5, line 2). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to employ a filler in the SBR latex of Gaertner.

Gaertner also fails to teach that the SBR is carboxylated. However, as noted above, Force teaches the use of carboxylated SBR latices for carpet backcoats. Thus, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to employ a carboxylated SBR for the SBR of Gaertner, since carboxylated SBR's are known in the art to be self-crosslinking (i.e., without the addition of a crosslinking agent). Therefore, claim 2 is rejected as being obvious over the cited prior art.

5. Claims 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DD 208 740 issued to Gaertner et al. in view of US 4,272,419 issued to Force, as applied to claim 2 above, and in further view of US 5,278,222 issued to Stack.

Force lacks a specific teaching of the carboxylated SBR composition. Stack teaches commercial available carboxylated SBR latices include those having 50-70% styrene and 0.2-10% of one or more carboxylic acids, such as acrylic acid, methacrylic acid, itaconic acid, maleic acid, and fumaric acid (col. 7, lines 56-67). Thus, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to employ a carboxylated SBR having the claimed composition, since said carboxylated SBR's are commercially available. Therefore, claims 16 and 17 are rejected as being obvious over the cited prior art.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 21-27 are allowed. Independent claim 21 is drawn to a carpet comprising pile, a backing, and a dried latex comprising the inventive latex composition recited in claim 1 of the parent application, 09/032667, now US 6,162,848 issued to Lattime et al.
